With the recent completion of our building at 3022 South Durango, Both Monica and I want to take the time to express our over whelming gratitude for the total professionalism, high standards and quality of construction. Boyd Martin is a company dedicated towards customer satisfaction focusing attention even on the smallest detail along the process.

From the beginning, at our initial meeting with Boyd we instantly gained confidence knowing that we had found a very special, highly motivated and honest individual of the highest character. Boyd is the type of person that with a simple promise and handshake your comfort level is high and for us was all we needed to begin our project using this company, and we were never disappointed. This type of faith in individual character and honesty is not something often found these days, but Boyd and his people are just that good. Over the months of construction I spent many hours monitoring the process of each phase. I commented to the many subcontractors about Boyd Martin construction and each would openly and without prompting comment that Boyd Martin construction is the best in Las Vegas. We also found that to be true.

The site Forman assigned was Ray Nate, what a special individual. This man has so many years of construction experience; we were blessed having him oversee our effort. Ray is extremely knowledgeable, organized and only represented us, the customer. Ray supervised each project from start to finish. He never once allowed a subcontractor to do even the slightest sub-standard work. He provided total feed back to me each day on what was being done and what was next in the process. Each time I had any changes to the project Ray provided guidance and went about making them happen. Ray simply sets high standards, lives by high standards and completes work by the same standards, an absolute professional.

We were provided construction costing and expenditures throughout the entire process. Never did we feel out of touch or overwhelmed with our budget. Nothing was hidden from us financially and received answers to each query, another pleasant surprise.

Our building project was finished on the date promised and was complete under budget. Not once did we feel gouged on any aspects of construction and associated costing. The material and labor was of the highest quality, simply stated we got what we paid for.

If we ever undertake a similar effort Boyd Martin will be the only construction company considered. We only wish Boyd did residential construction. I would relish a home built by this fine company.
